DISTRICTING; What's It All About? Two separate Town Hall Informational meetings have been scheduled at the Hut on Wednesday, September 11, 2019 and Tuesday, October 15, 2019 to answer questions residents may have regarding the process of districting. As you may know, the Pineville Town Council passed a resolution and an ordinance to have this issue on the November ballot so residents can vote on it. If you are unsure of what this all means, attend one of the informational sessions above and have your questions answered so that you are clear on what it means for Pineville. The outcome of how residents vote on this issue in November will determine how many council members Pineville will have in the future and eventually what the districts will look like if it passes. Find out what happens if no one from a district runs for a seat on the Council. All your questions will be answered. Each session will run from 6:30 p.m. until 8:00 p.m. at the Hut Meeting Facility located at 413 Johnston Rd., Pineville. Reminders will be posted on the town's website and Facebook page as it gets closer to the time.

BUSINESS NEWS

Efforts are underway to form a Pineville Chamber of Commerce: It makes sense that with so many businesses in town, that we also have a Chamber of Commerce to help promote these businesses and unite them in a way that they can help each other. This is not an endeavor of the town itself, but an individual who saw the need for such an organization. For more information, please visit: www.pinevillencchamber.com.

RIBBON CUTTINGS Mayor Edwards participates in several Grand Openings

Formerly, Sky High Sports, KINSO (left) re-opened its doors as a kinetic social park & event center featuring youth parties, team building programs and so much more. What a way to play! At right was another grand re-opening of the new Anytime Fitness. Exercise any time of day!

Mayor Jack Edwards assists with the ribbon-cutting at both events.

MAKE A SPLASH The Grand Opening of the new Splash Pad at Lake Park finally took place on July 18th to a very hot, but happy crowd!

Many thanks to Kona Ice for keeping the crowd cool until the ribbon was cut and the "splash" button pushed!

MECKLENBURG COUNTY NEWS

STORM WATER News

There are thousands of storm drains all over Mecklenburg County. These storm drains help displace rain water from roads and parking lots. As rain water moves into these drains, they carry loose debris with them and can easily get clogged by yard waste including leaves, grass clipping, and limbs. Clogging of drains can lead to localized flooding. What can you do to help?

- Dispose of yard waste by collecting it into trash bags and sitting it along the curb for your garbage collection crew to discard.
- Check any storm drains near your house on a regular basis to remove any trash or debris.

Charlotte-Mecklenburg Storm Water Services (CMSWS) also has placards that can be placed on storm drains that say, “THIS DRAIN IS ONLY FOR RAIN. DO NOT DUMP – DRAINS TO CREEK”. You can help us spread that message by emailing Deania.Russo@mecknc.gov to have a storm drain marking kit mailed to your house. CMSWS also has a volunteer event scheduled for September 14th, 9:00am-12:00pm, where volunteers will meet at 1000 Johnston Drive, Pineville to get a map of local neighborhoods in need of storm drain markers. CMSWS staff will be there to give instructions and pass out supplies. This event is open to adults and children. It does not require any registration, just show up ready to help! Email Deania Russo with any questions: Deania.Russo@mecknc.gov. To report stormwater pollution in a creek or storm drain near you, call 3-1-1.

When it comes to getting serious about exercise, most people think of January 1st as the only window you have to hit "reset" on your Health & Wellness routine. But the truth is, the beginning of Fall is another great time to either recommit to fitness goals or set new ones. Think about it: from the time you're a kid, the start of autumn signals a transition from the excitement and busyness of summer to a more focused energy. Whether you have kids you're sending back to school or not, you can still harness those "back to school" vibes to refocus your energy and get back to you. Are you ready to Fall into Wellness & Fitness Fun like a pro? We're here to help.

Pineville Parks and Recreation offers citizens endless opportunities to achieve your fitness and wellness goals at our indoor/outdoor walking tracks, playgrounds, gym, fitness room, fitness classes, athletic fields, and more. Cut-up veggies, lean meats, olive oil, coconut oil and nuts are all great options.

PATTON'S PERFORMANCE BOOTCAMP

Our 55-minute sessions include a dynamic warm-up, workout, metabolic meltdown finisher, then a cool-down, and stretching period. This program has been proven to be the most effective training time for fat loss and building strength for men and women. Each participant works out at their own pace within the group. Pineville's Bootcamp instructor, Audrey Patton is a nationally certified personal trainer who will keep it fun and challenging while making modifications for individuals which makes the training more personalized.

Each training day, or workout, includes a run or cardio component, a resistance or strength-training component and a core-training component. Each component is designed to focus on speed, agility, power, strength, or endurance. Many of the exercises rely on body weight, but we also utilize equipment such as dumbbells, resistance bands, agility ladders, a partner's body weight, and other natural and man-made aspects of the park like stairs, benches, hills and the parking lot.

Our training weeks are designed so that there is minimal overlap in training different muscle groups. This allows for greater recovery and a highly efficient approach to achieving balanced, total-body fitness. Moving through each 4-week session, we gradually increase the training intensity and volume to keep up with your body as it adapts to the training, ensuring that you'll receive the most out of every week you train. This is a year-round program that delivers results while keeping it challenging, safe, sustainable, interesting, and fun for participants.

The Dog Days of Summer...

Residents of the Laurels were treated to their very own dog show one Saturday morning in July. Dogs owned by some of the employees of the Laurels, along with dogs owned by some of the relatives of the residents of the Laurels were invited to participate. Each owner had an opportunity to say a little something about their pooch and then take them around for the crowd to see. At the end, there were prizes and homemade treats for every pup that participated. Pictured below is "Fifi" who stole everyone's heart, Mayor Jack Edwards with his two Great Danes and German Shepard, Ciro, from Pineville's K-9 unit. Debbie Prehn, Community Relations Director for the Laurels and the Haven, hosted the show and helped hand out the homemade doggie treats!
